- 1. A new basic personal identity document (Dowod Osobisty) was to be issued during 1952 in Poland. Persons were asked to fill out a personal questionnaire (Ankieta Fersonalna) and with it to submit a curriculum vitae (written in the person's own handwriting, not typed) with three photographs, taken by authorized photographers and not retouched. The deadline for taking photographs was set for 8 March 1952. The photographs are numbered on the back and are sent to the Security Office. The Personnel Department in Minex was in charge of collecting the questionnaires, the curricular vitae, and photographs, and processing them with the Security Office. The employees in Minex were accustomed to filling out personal questionnaires and making out curriculums vitae, as they had to do it at least twice a year. Most of them kept copies of these papers, so as not to make a different statement sometime in the future.
- 2. The personal questionnaire included the following questions:
 - (a) Name.
 - (b) Birth: date and place.
 - (c) Father's and mother's names, mother's maiden name.
 - (d) Parents cocupation, social origin (i.e. worker, farmer, intellectual, etc).
 - (e) Dates of education elementary and higher, if any.
 - (f) Property status of father and mother.
 - (g) Army service before and during the war.
 - (h) Membership, and rank, in army groups during the German occupation. If a man belonged to the Home Army (Armja Krajowa AK), the People's Army (Armja Ludowa AL), People's Guard (Gwardja Ludowa GL), Peasant Battalions (Bataliony Chlopskid BCH), or the National Armed Forces (Narodowe Sily Zbrojne NSZ), it was held against him.
